* * Film Screening at Calvary Hospital * ***

WHAT: Calvary Hospital invites the public to a special viewing of “Sleepless in Seattle.” Tom Hanks plays a young widower whose wife dies of cancer. He and his young son (Jonah) move to Seattle Washington to make a fresh start. Trying to help his lonely father, Jonah calls into a radio show for advice. Thousands of women are so touched by his story that send him letters. One of the letters is from a journalist (Meg Ryan). Jonah tries to convince his father to go to NYC on Valentine’s Day so that he could meet her.

Following the movie, there will be a discussion in support of widows, widowers, or anyone suffering through mourning or bereavement.

WHEN: Friday, February 12, 2010 from 1:00 PM to 3:00 PM
1740 Eastchester Road
Bronx, New York 10461

There is no charge for the program, which is open to the public. RSVPs are recommended; please call (718) 518-2173 by Wednesday, February 10th. Walk-ins are welcome.

WHY: The film is being shown as a part of Calvary’s bereavement services program. We offer free bereavement support groups for adults, children, and teens.

Calvary Hospital (www.calvaryhospital.org) is the nation’s only fully accredited acute care specialty hospital devoted exclusively to providing palliative care to adult advanced cancer patients. A 225-bed facility with locations in the Bronx and Brooklyn, Calvary is the model for the relief of cancer pain and symptoms for more than a century. More than 5,500 patients are cared for annually by Calvary’s inpatient, outpatient, home care, home hospice, nursing home hospice, and wound care services.
